INTERNATIONAL INNOVATION AWARD UNESCO CHAIR SEXUAL HEALTH & HUMAN RIGHTS

REGULATION 2023

Article 1: ELIGIBILITY AND APPLICATIONS

Any individual, team or national or international organization that presents innovative work, publications, events, research or achievements that fall exclusively within the objectives of the UNESCO Chair in Sexual health & Human rights may be selected.

Article 2: PURPOSE OF THE AWARD

The award is a guarantee of excellence in prevention, education or promotion of the inseparable links between positive sexual health and human rights. The winning candidate receives the “International Innovation Award of the UNESCO Chair Sexual health & Human rights” and is thus supported in the promotion and dissemination of his/her work.

The award may be given to a specific work or to a body of work with a focus on advancing sexual health and human rights.

Article 3: TOPICS: FORM AND CONTENTS

On the form, several are possible: events, publications, research, educational action and artistic works linked to human sexuality and respecting human rights. On the content, the first criterion is innovation and original contribution of the work; the objectives and the results should be clearly stated. The actions must relate to projects completed or in progress.

Article 4: AWARD PROCESS

The application form should be downloaded from the Chair's website and sent, once completed, as an attached file to the e-mail address indicated in the application form, together with a Curriculum Vitae and/or a visual before the end of the call for proposals. Applicants must imperatively communicate to the organizers all the information required, without which their application will be invalidated. A complementary file can be sent.

Article 5: SELECTION COMMITTEE

It is up to the organizers to choose the projects most in accordance with the Chair's commitments. The selection committee establishes an initial selection and examines the validity of the nomination. The selected projects are then forwarded to the jury which designates the winner of the award after deliberation.

Article 6: JURY

It is up to the jury to select the winner. The jury meets and deliberates after having studied individually and collectively discussed the results. The secrecy of the proceedings must be respected. Voting is by simple majority; each voice represents one vote. Nevertheless, after deliberation, the jury may decide not to award any prize or any trophy.

The composition of the jury is determined each year by the organizers, i.e. the Chair's executive committee. The majority of the jury is composed of active members of the Chair (committee members and correspondents).

In addition, it must include at least 3 members of the Executive Committee and is chaired by a chairperson appointed each year by the head of the UNESCO Chair. The identity and number of other jurors is at the discretion of the competition organizers.

It will choose the winner of awards during secret deliberations.

Jurors allow the organizers to use their full names and possibly their photos and videos to promote the "International Innovation Award of the UNESCO Chair Sexual health & Human rights", to the exclusion of any other purpose. No quorum is required to authorize the jury deliberation in different phases.

Article 7: PUBLICATION AND AWARD

The award is awarded at a ceremony on the occasion of an event organized by the UNESCO Chair Sexual health & Human rights.

The winner will keep the price for one year, and to pass next year to the new winner.

Article 8: PROVISION

The “International Innovation Award of the UNESCO Chair Sexual health & Human rights” has Human has three prizes:

The first prize will receive 1,000 Euros and a trophy

The second and third prizes will receive € 500 each.

The ownership of the trophy remains with the organizing Chair Award. Only the usufruct of this Award is transmitted to the recipient, for a period of one year. Beyond this time, the organizers can recover the trophy at any time and on request. Award is personal and cannot be attributed to a person other than the individual winners. The trophy is a work from the world of the arts that promotes sexual health and human rights through culture and/or sustainable development.

Article 9: ADVERTISING AND PROMOTION OF CANDIDATES

With the mere fact of submitting their application, applicants authorize the organizers to use their full names and possibly their photos and videos to promote the “International Innovation Award of the UNESCO Chair Sexual health & Human rights”, to the exclusion of any other purpose without this use to any rights other than the Award won.

Article 10: CONSULTATION OF THE RULES

These Regulations may be accessed and printed at any time on the Award home page accessible from the following address: <http://www.santese sexuelle-droitshumains.org>

Article 11: JURISDICTION

The parties admit without reservation that the mere act of participating in the contest must submit them to the French laws, including any litigation that would come to be born as a result of the competition subject matter hereof or which is directly or indirectly linked to it, without prejudice possible conflict of laws rules that may exist.

Participants are subject to French regulations applicable to games and competitions.

Any dispute that cannot be settled amicably will report to the competent courts of Paris, even in cases of multiple defendants, incidental claims or of third parties.
